Two million meals served and annual revenues of over 10 million euros

Autogril opens Europe’s biggest food court at the Carrousel du Louvre

Paris, 16th December 2009 – Autogril today opened the "Restaurants du Monde", the biggest food court in France, in the world’s most visited museum, the Louvre, in Paris. The food & beverage facilities on the first floor of the Carrousel du Louvre, with a view of the inverted pyramid, include seven restaurants and three coffee shops (covering 1,800 m²) operated directly by Autogril France and employing around 200 people.

Seating 700, offering 400 exclusive recipes from the world’s culinary heritage and serving two million meals a year, “Restaurants du Monde” is expected to generate over ten million euros a year.

The Court’s culinary offering caters to the most diverse tastes – French, Italian, Spanish, Mediterranean, Asiatic and American, and not only – meeting the needs of both cosmopolitan tourist and local Parisian clienteles.

This offering by Autogril France is backed up by all the know-how of the world’s leading provider of traveller services, active in 43 countries, and its capacity to meet the ever changing needs of transport infrastructure and services, as well as those of major international museums, with a multi-brand approach deploying both house and license brands.

Design priorities included floor plans, ambience atmosphere and décor. Hence the choice of the international firm of architects Chapman Taylor for the rebuilding work started in 2007 after Autogril won the contract to provide f&b services for the Parisian museum’s shopping centre.

The project is part of Autogril’s development of new business in cultural and other high prestige locations, such as the archaeological sites at Pompei, the Triennale in Milan, the Museo del Cinema in Turin, the Jardins de Versailles, the Palacio Real in Madrid and the Empire State Building in New York.

“Italy,” said Francesco Maria Giro, Undersecretary for Culture, “is pursuing an ambitious and wide-reaching strategy to upgrade its museums and archaeological sites. The international projects promoted by Autogril are contributing to the implementation of our programme. Culture and quality of life,” continued Giro, “go together and this phenomenon is attracting people to places of interest and beauty that are increasingly sensitive to the various needs of their visitors”.
“France is where Autogrill’s international expansion started around 15 years ago,” said Autogrill chairman Gilberto Benetton, “and it was here in Paris, in Boulevard St. Germain, that Benetton opened its first point of sale outside Italy, exactly 40 years ago. Being at the Louvre is a truly great honour and an achievement we have been working towards for years, by building an enterprise capable of understanding and satisfying the tastes and customs of consumers across all continents”.

“I am happy to participate in the opening of this ambitious and innovative concept addressing the culinary traditions and needs of our country” said Hervé Novelli, Secretary of State for Trade, Crafts, SME, Tourism, Services and Consumers. “As Minister of Enterprise, I welcome this bold entrepreneurial project and its numerous partners. And as Minister of Tourism, I am delighted to see the appearance of a new centre of activity that will boost the appeal of the site and its business with new services and a new offering for our foreign visitors”.
